

The cross I wear in the name of the Daughters of the King was blessed at the altar and entrusted to me when I was made a member of the Order at a Service in the Church. I wear it as an outward sign of the inward and spiritual grace which I gain through membership. I must revere it and guard it with care. Should I resign, or when I depart this life, it is to be returned to the chapter to which I belong or to the Diocesan Assembly president if I am a Daughter-at-Large. They will send it to the National Office unless I have requested that it be buried with me.
